

ABSTRACT

A method for producing a stress impedance effect element that can be rigidly mounted, and that element are provided. The stress impedance effect element has electrodes (4) each formed at a respective one of the opposite ends of a magnetostrictive amorphous thin wire (2), by ultrasonic bonding.